

OPEN LESSON

Are the Feminine Values Beneficial for Everybody?

A new model of private and public organization based on “feminine” values

5 MARCH 2025
12:00 PM

Bocconi University
Room Manfredini
Via Sarfatti 25

Recent scientific research shows that the integration of values typically considered feminine, such as compassion, kindness and empathy, has a significant impact on longevity, well-being and individual and collective productivity.

This event brings together leading figures in the fields of science, culture and entrepreneurship to explore the transformative potential of “feminine” values in leadership and governance of public and private organizations, promoting an innovative and inclusive model.

The aim of the event is to highlight how adopting these principles can create more balanced and efficient work environments, going beyond simple numerical parity.

REGISTRATION REQUIRED

REGISTRATION FORM

FOR INFORMATION
eventi@unibocconi.it

Introduction

Paola Profeta

Dean for Diversity, Inclusion and Sustainability

Speakers

Felicia Cigorescu

Artistic Director, Head of the International Kindness Movement, Founder of Sacra Woman

Angelica De Vito

Diplomatic Advisor of Climate Migration at the United Nations, G7/G20 Global Youth Leadership Program

Daniel Lumera

Biologist, bestselling author, curator of the column 7 Respiri for Il Corriere della Sera

Ennio Tasciotti

Molecular Biologist, Head of the Human Longevity Program at IRCCS San Raffaele

In collaboration with