

Bocconi Effective Thesis Writing Workshop

Your thesis is an important culmination of the work you have done at Bocconi. Managing culminations is never easy, and they become even more challenging when you are trying to manage them in another language.

The Effective Thesis Writing Workshop looks to help you manage the challenge of preparing your thesis in English.

In the Workshop you will work on:

- Communicating your research results
- Presenting your conclusions
- Constructing an effective introduction
- Improving your language and style
- Preparing your abstract

Participants:

You should have at least a B2 level of English.

All materials will be provided before the day of the workshop. You are responsible for bringing the materials with you.

Duration: Two 2-hour sessions

Session 1

Description:

At every stage of the development of your thesis, you need the language to articulate your ideas clearly.

The first session of the workshop will focus on communicating the general outline of your thesis and on matching your language to its structure. We will pay particular attention to communicating your research and discussing your findings.

Session 2

Description:

The success of your thesis depends on more than just your research. You need to manage your audience's expectations and make language choices that they feel are appropriate.

The second session of the workshop will focus crafting an effective abstract of your work. You will also work on matching your language and style to the levels expected of a thesis.
