The regulatory landscape and the best practices on sustainable finance are differently applied, depending on specific corporate sectors, contexts and perspectives. This Seminar Series aims at introducing both the main principles and the best practices of sustainable finance. To this end, we will debate on practical case studies that consider different sectors, context and perspectives, such as corporations, financial institutions (banks and insurance companies), law firms, equity and debt investors, borrowers, lenders and rating agencies. In so doing, the Seminar Series is both easily accessible and fruitful for the students of any MSc.

The Series is organized in the following 6 Seminars of about one hour and a half each. Different guest speakers will share their experience and discuss specific case studies. The coordinator supervises the design and the discussion of each case study, to guarantee the adoption of a homogenous and consistent framework.
